Hensley Nastor Banzales was born and raised in Metro Manila. He finished a degree in Business Administration in FEU Diliman, where he majored in Financial Management and Accountancy. There during his last couple of years, he started to foster his love for literature. The fascination with the works of Poe and Yuson’s “Dream of Knives” fueled his first few years of writing. He grew up watching non-English language films, old and new, from around the world. Kurosawa, Almodovar, Kieslowski, and Bergman are among his favorites. He looks forward to his first screenplay. Lately, he has been fascinated by Degas, Picasso, and Banksy. hensley.banzales@gmail.com
